BIO:

Andrew Darbyshire is a successful Melbourne-born businessman, speaker, author and philanthropist, with an incredibly inspiring story to share. He founded his software business, Pacsoft, in the mid-80's and now has staff and offices in Australia and the USA.

After leaving school at 15, against all expectations by his teachers Andrew went on to become a qualified pilot and self-made multi-millionaire. His business enables him to enjoy an enviable lifestyle of working not more than one hour a week in his company, choosing to use his time to inspire audiences with clear and simple strategies for success. Andrew's success certainly didn't come easily, and now through his speaking, he shares with people all over Australia "The Secret to an Extraordinary Life".

If you've ever wanted your business to work for you, rather than you for it ... Then 60 minutes with Andrew will give you the key. Andrew's own life experience has highlighted the importance of effective risk-management in business. Whether you are an individual, employer, or SME operator, by applying Andrew's techniques you can future-proof your organisation and enjoy the immediate benefits of this fresh and innovative approach.
