BIO:

Brad Tonini is "Australia's Sales Strategist ". He is a practising entrepreneur who shows sales people , sales managers and business owners how to increase sales and build profits .

He will show your team how to get the competitive spirit by out - marketing, out-selling and out-performing your competitors.

Author of 3 books including the latest "The new Rules of the Game ", he is an inspiring presenter.

Testimonials:

"Not only were the workshops rich with great content but they were also received in an enthusiastic way which made it so interesting to listen to. Your own story helped you to show how you had earned the right which really impressed my team and has inspired them to reach new heights."

Mark Liebach- Director, Optus Business Direct

"We were impressed with your practical, engaging and insightful presentation together with the high quality resource material you provided. Attendees enjoyed the session and it was obvious that they were engaged and fully participative. The knowledge you shared with us in terms of dealing with different behavioural styles of team members was invaluable and the strategies of prioritization, dealing with interruptions, taking responsibility (to name a few) would add value to the busy and often unpredictable nature of the meetings and events industry."

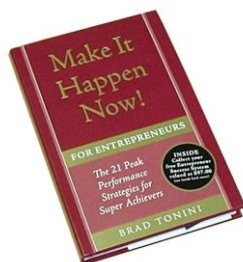

Alison Johnson- Branch Development Officer Vic, Meetings and Events Australia
