BIO:

If there was a degree to be had in making compliance easy to understand Rosemary would have it; she has specialised in the Building Act training since 1995. She brings with her practical insights and wisdom from years of working alongside building compliance staff, Council and building inspectors.

Rosemary Hazlewood is the Director of Building Networks, a training consultancy specialising in compliance training. An experienced trainer with expertise in designing, writing and delivering training to a variety of groups, she also provides train the trainer courses and support for subject matter experts.

Rosemary has a Masters degree, certificates in public relations and adult education. She is an honorary member of the Building Officials Institute and is a member of the American Society of Training and Development.

Testimonials: It is always a joy working with her and knowing that any training she undertakes will be delivered with the utmost quality and professionalism. CEO, Building Officials Institute of New Zealand

Rosemary is always enthusiastic in her delivery of training and committed to providing the complete learning experience. Tim Weight, Team Leader Building Inspections, Christchurch City Council

The knowledge Rosemary has is evident in her training and referring to personal experiences makes the scenarios more relatable. Tyla Cochran, Team Leader Building Consents, North Shore City Council

Rosemary has been a tremendous help by opening the communication channels between TA's and IQP's, following the new Building Act 04 and Compliance Schedule Handbook. She is an excellent resource for sharing information and coming up with solutions whether on her training courses or website forums. Susan Boyle, Building Warrant of Fitness Officer, North Shore City Council
